GABRIEL W. GORENSTEIN, United States Magistrate Judge

With regard to Docket # 160, the Court is not convinced that plaintiff and Worldwide have made sufficient efforts to resolve this dispute. Additionally, the disputes are not clearly articulated in the letters. Plaintiff and Worldwide are directed to confer again, in person or by telephone (not by email), in an effort to go through each category of document or redactions at issue. The parties' goal must be to achieve a reasonable resolution of each area of dispute.

If any issues remain after the parties have discussed them in full, the parties shall file a jointly-composed letter that, category by category, provides each side's position as to that category in detail. Each category shall be numbered and shall indicate clearly which types of documents or redactions are at issue. The letter shall omit the history of the efforts to meet and confer.

Before filing such a letter, each side shall be given an opportunity to adjust its portion of the letter to respond to the other side's written draft describing its side of the dispute. Also, each side must make itself available to consult telephonically with opposing counsel as part of the composition process. It is critical that the final letter give the complete position of each side as to each issue.

The Court hopes that it will not be necessary for plaintiff to file this letter. But if it is filed, the Court expects that it will decide the remaining disputes based solely on the letter and without holding a conference.

SO ORDERED.
